

Subclasses are grouped by shared methods / fields (eg. every subclass of GroundVehicle will also have the field "wheels" etc.)
Generally speaking, a class with more superclasses describes a more specific vehicle-type.
Unfortunately, the field "maxPassengers" and its getters/setters need to be replicated among multiple classes, due to the fact that classes in Java can only inherit from one superclass.